Featured Artist: Sentual The Slayer

Sentual The Slayer generates energy in Carmel, Indiana, just outside Indianapolis. We asked Sentual when he began making music. "I started making music seriously, in 2019," he begins. "I was learning how to use beats and things, apps, and certain software with my computer to produce music. From there, I watched YouTube videos, took a class online, and began to learn how to make music."

We talked about what makes Sentual's music unique. "I make every song different, I add different tempos, different pace, different types of instruments in each song that makes the song special in their own way."

"dubstep, music I know that doesn't require too much singing and too much voice power is unique. It's more like you are in your own mind and it makes you think on your own. When someone is singing, it's from their perspective. With instrumental music, you can think about anything, it's unique, it's underrated."

Our conversation turned to a single called "Waves Of Techno." Sentual talks about how that track came together. "With that song, I tried to make it more upbeat, I used different tempo paths and different software on this song that I didn't use on the previous ones. I added heavy metal guitars in the middle, some hip hop drums to the song, I added things that are not ordinary for that type of song that makes it very, very unique."

Dynamic, unique, innovative, and original are terms that are not typically used to describe new music, in today's sonically saturated world. Those terms absolutely describe Sentual The Slayer. Download and stream these various tracks from Sentual at the links below.
